winds of fate

one ship drives east and another drives west,
while the self-same breezes blow;
it's the set of the sails and not the gales,
that bids them where to go.
like the winds of the seas
and the ways of the fates
as we voyage along through life. it's
the set of the soul
that decides the goal
and not the storms or the strife.

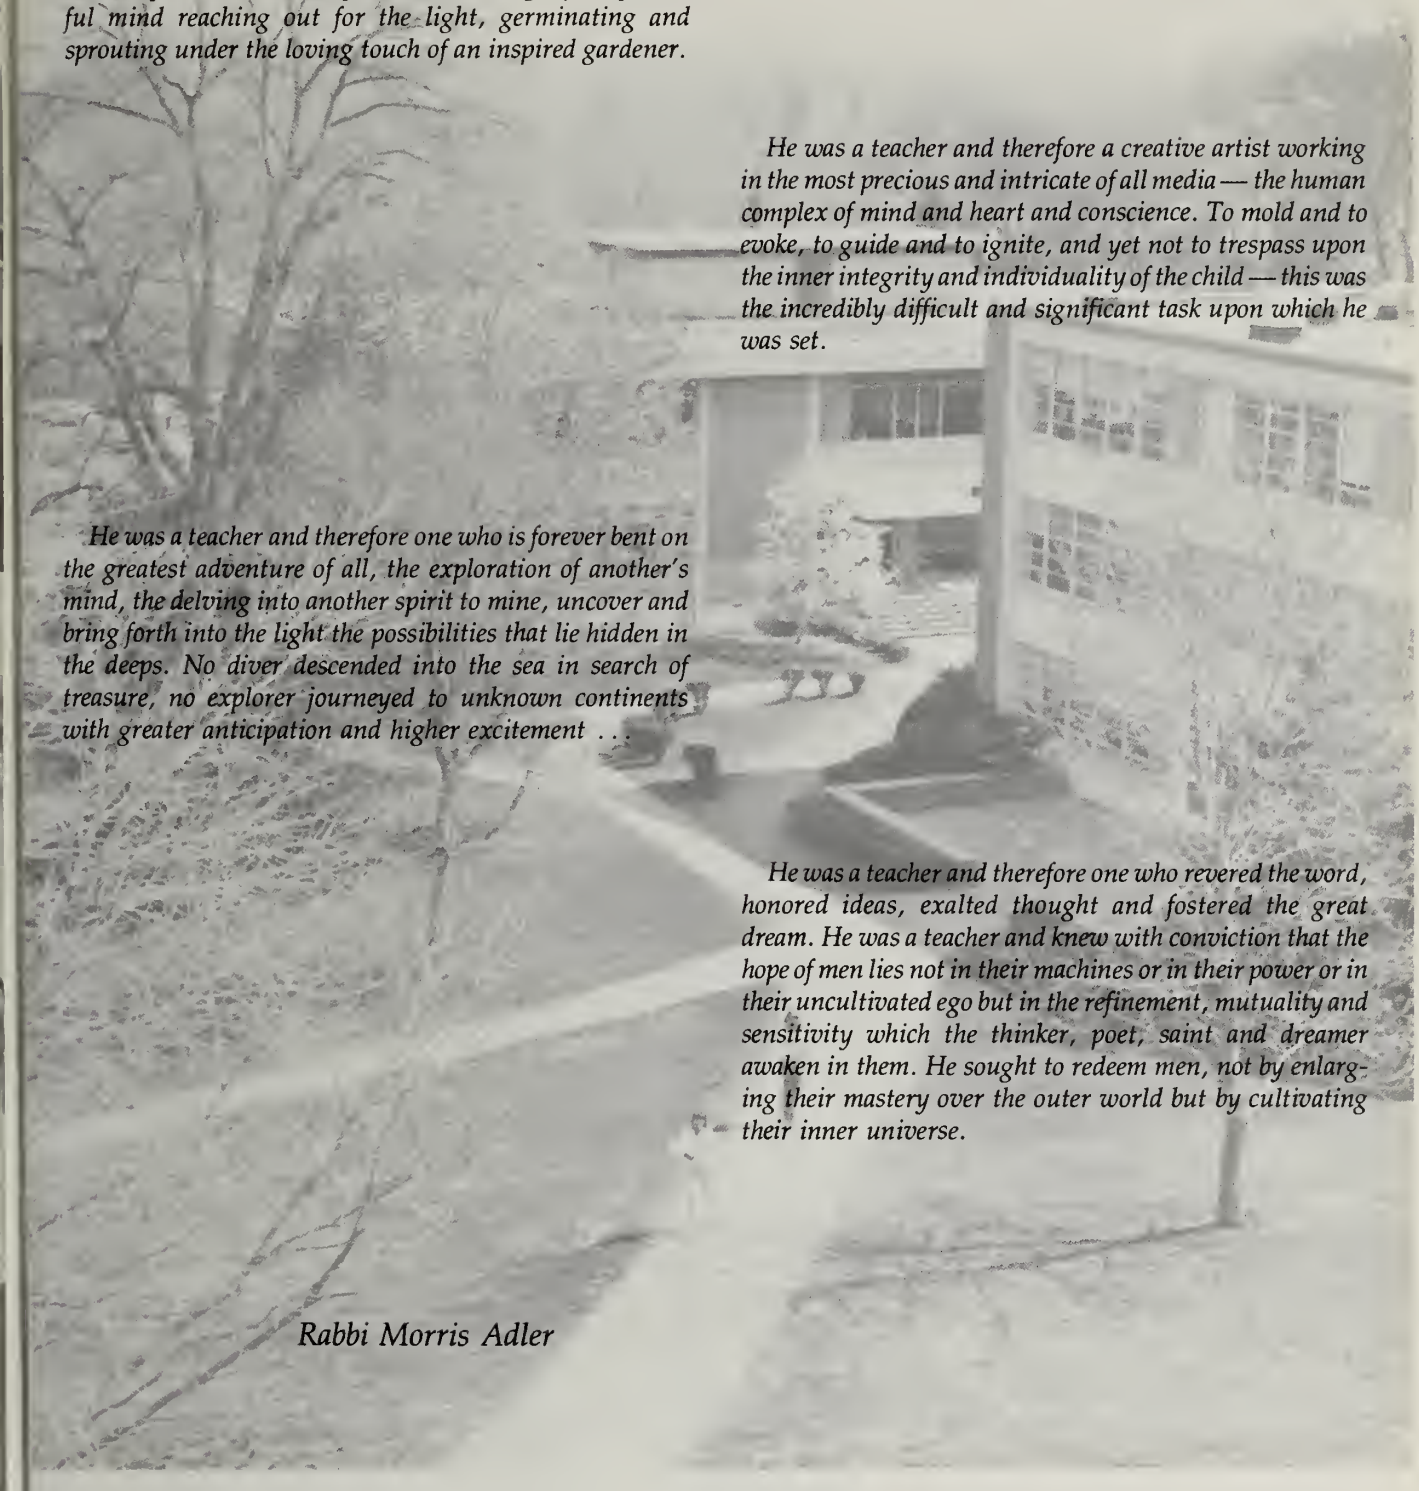
TRIBUTE TO A TEACHER

. . . He was a teacher, and therefore his was a poetic sensitivity to growth, to enlargement. Only a poet hears the grass grow, witnesses the flowers in their actual blossoming, beholds the ripening in process in field and meadow. And only a teacher actually sees the seedlings of the youthful mind reaching out for the light, germinating and sprouting under the loving touch of an inspired gardener.



He was a teacher and therefore a creative artist working in the most precious and intricate of all media — the human complex of mind and heart and conscience. To mold and to evoke, to guide and to ignite, and yet not to trespass upon the inner integrity and individuality of the child — this was the incredibly difficult and significant task upon which he was set.

He was a teacher and therefore one who is forever bent on the greatest adventure of all, the exploration of another's mind, the delving into another spirit to mine, uncover and bring forth into the light the possibilities that lie hidden in the deeps. No diver descended into the sea in search of treasure, no explorer journeyed to unknown continents with greater anticipation and higher excitement . . .

He was a teacher and therefore one who revered the word, honored ideas, exalted thought and fostered the great dream. He was a teacher and knew with conviction that the hope of men lies not in their machines or in their power or in their uncultivated ego but in the refinement, mutuality and sensitivity which the thinker, poet, saint and dreamer awaken in them. He sought to redeem men, not by enlarging their mastery over the outer world but by cultivating their inner universe.

Rabbi Morris Adler

The whole art of teaching is only the art of awakening the natural curiosity of young minds for the purpose of satisfying it afterwards.

BED DURING EXAMS

I used to go to bed at night,
And only worked when day was light.
But now 'its quite the other way,
I never get to bed till day.

I look up from my work and see
The morning light shine in on me,
And listen to a warning knell —
The tinkle of the rising bell.

And does there not seem cause to weep,
When I should like so much to sleep,
I have to sing this mournful lay,
I cannot get to bed till day?

ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

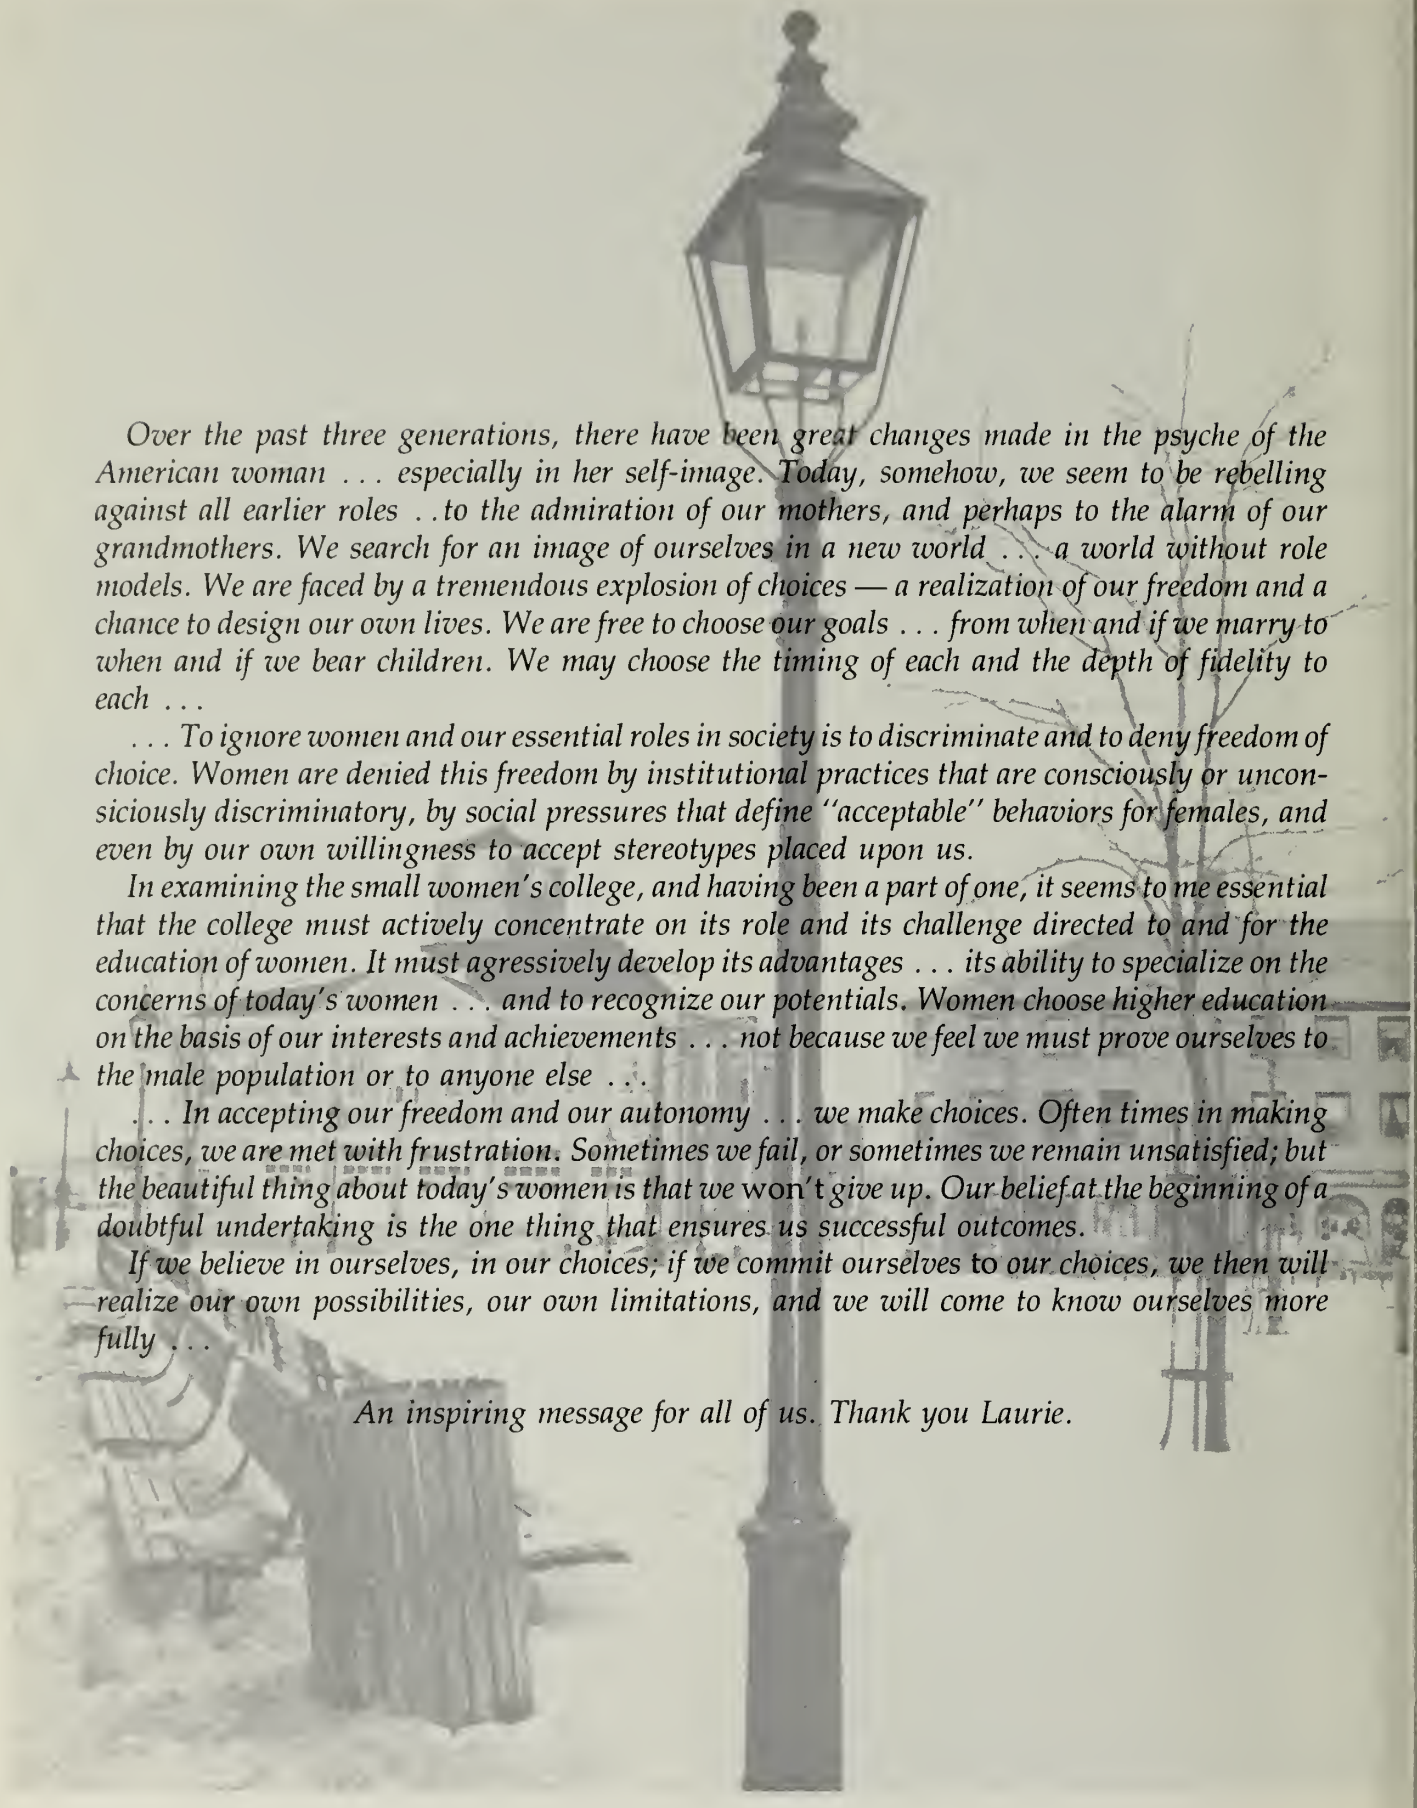
LASELL JUNIOR COLLEGE
Auburndale, Massachusetts
Sunday, May Sixteenth
Nineteen Hundred and Eighty-Two
Eleven O'Clock

Our friend, classmate and President of Student Government, Laurie Wilkins, so aptly expressed our sentiments of graduation that we felt they merited remembering and immortalizing here.

We have always been the iron brace of the American family . . . the keeper of the domestic flame . . . the creator of the apple pie . . . and the one for whom dish washers and clothes lines were built.

But look at us now!

We are meeting new challenges . . . no longer in the kitchen, we are now in the office, the lab, or in city hall. With our new assertiveness, we have great reason to be optimistic . . . and we show no signs of regression. We want to do everything . . . and although, as women, we are faced with limitations, we continue to strive for those achievements which warrant personal satisfaction.



Over the past three generations, there have been great changes made in the psyche of the American woman . . . especially in her self-image. Today, somehow, we seem to be rebelling against all earlier roles . . to the admiration of our mothers, and perhaps to the alarm of our grandmothers. We search for an image of ourselves in a new world . . . a world without role models. We are faced by a tremendous explosion of choices — a realization of our freedom and a chance to design our own lives. We are free to choose our goals . . . from when and if we marry to when and if we bear children. We may choose the timing of each and the depth of fidelity to each . . .

. . . To ignore women and our essential roles in society is to discriminate and to deny freedom of choice. Women are denied this freedom by institutional practices that are consciously or unconsiciously discriminatory, by social pressures that define "acceptable" behaviors for females, and even by our own willingness to accept stereotypes placed upon us.

In examining the small women's college, and having been a part of one, it seems to me essential that the college must actively concentrate on its role and its challenge directed to and for the education of women. It must agressively develop its advantages . . . its ability to specialize on the concerns of today's women . . . and to recognize our potentials. Women choose higher education on the basis of our interests and achievements . . . not because we feel we must prove ourselves to the male population or to anyone else . . .

. . . In accepting our freedom and our autonomy . . . we make choices. Often times in making choices, we are met with frustration. Sometimes we fail, or sometimes we remain unsatisfied; but the beautiful thing about today's women is that we won't give up. Our belief at the beginning of a doubtful undertaking is the one thing that ensures us successful outcomes.

If we believe in ourselves, in our choices; if we commit ourselves to our choices, we then will realize our own possibilities, our own limitations, and we will come to know ourselves more fully . . .

An inspiring message for all of us. Thank you Laurie.

college days are over for us —
the class of 1982

we'll miss the familiar buildings
and all our friends

great memories —
what Lasell is all about

we're partly glad

In our haste to leave,
old rules are broken.

and we leave some things
behind us.

Some are forgotten,
but some have just
served their purpose.

We've taken what's important away with us.

DEDICATION

THE 1982 LASELL LAMP IS LOVINGLY DEDICATED TO DONNA CARP, a nursing student, and a wonderful friend, who passed away this year.

We will never forget her!!

May the road rise up to meet you,
May the wind be always at your back,
May the sun shine warm upon your face —
And the rain fall soft upon your fields.

And until we meet again someday,
May God hold you in the palm of his hand,
And the memories that we have shared — Linger on and on.

Old Irish Blessing

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This yearbook was completed with considerable difficulty, and we owe its existence to the following individuals:

Sue Sturtevant, Advisor, part-time photographer, etc., etc. whose perseverance finally paid off.
Mark Richards, Photographer, who gave our memories immortality.
The committee: Andrea Goodwin, Adele Mimnaugh, Robin Tavekelian, Sara Hamilton, Sue Bissonnette and Bonnie Mae Smith, all of whom made valuable contributions.
Sara Hamilton, Kim Rowe and Colleen Kehoe who came through at the end with our cover design.
Gail Rosenberg who did our cover page calligraphy.
Laurie Curro who did all the artwork for The Lamp.
Gina McKenna and Linda Pszonowsky whose senior section "bail out" efforts, and consolation, were invaluable.
Dick Swiech, Hunter Publishing Consultant, who gave us guidance and patience.
Helen Wallstrom, Dean of Students, who provided constant support.

"Sue's Motto"

If a task is once begun, never leave it 'till it's done.
Be the labor great or small, do it well or not at all.
